

Ana Yaneiry Barrios

“My goal in life is to become an advocate for survivors of violence.”

Ana Yaneiry Barrios graduated from the University of Southern California with a double major in Social Sciences and Contemporary Latino and Latin American Studies. She is a current first year MSW student at the USC Suzanne Dworak-Peck School of Social Work.

As a daughter of a domestic violence survivor, Yaneiry has a passion to lead, serve, and support survivors of violence, especially those who identify as undocumented. Yaneiry is devoted to creating safe environments for survivors of violence who live with debilitating traumas, and to empower them through life’s most difficult challenges. She hopes to bring awareness to the issue of violence and hopes to bring an end to the existing stigma that prevents survivors from seeking support and mental health services.
